

Writing a Restraining Order Statement

1. Use the first sentence to tell the judge or commissioner the length and nature of your relationship with the respondent. (ex. My husband, John, and I have been together for eight years, and married for five.). Do you have children together that are involved? (ex. We have three children together ages 2, 7 and 9...)
2. In the first paragraph tell about the most recent incident (provide the date) of violence. Be specific, including how you were hurt and what the injuries were. Use verbs!
(ex. I was pushed across the room, causing me to lose my balance and fall;
...hit with an open hand on the side of my head causing bruises.
...held a fist to my face, making me feel like he was about to punch me.
...Threatened to kill me
This is to satisfy the requirement in the law of pain, injury, or threat of pain or injury.
3. In the second paragraph tell about the next most recent incident. Be specific about dates and places as best you can recall.
4. Begin the third paragraph by saying, “In the past he has...” Then give a list of all physical or threatening acts you can remember in the course of the relationship. You may be asked to provide dates.
5. You may begin your final sentence, “I need this injunction because...” and then you may choose to pick one of the following endings:
“...I fear for my safety.”
“...I fear for my life.”
“...I am afraid he’ll follow through with his threats.”
